5. Paragraph 6 of Article 3 of the Convention requires Parties to allow exports only with written consent from the importing Parties or importing non-Parties, and only for allowed purposes. Therefore, if mercury is exported from a Party, the Party should either have received written consent through form A, the form for the provision of written consent by a Party to the import of mercury or should have relied on the general notification under paragraph 7 of Article 3, using form D, the form for general notification of consent to import mercury. Canada, Japan, Thailand and the United States of America have provided to the Secretariat general notifications of consent to import, which are accessible on the Convention website.

6. Paragraph 9 of Article 3 allows a Party that has submitted a general notification to waive the restrictions imposed by the Convention on the imports of mercury from a non-Party, provided that it maintains comprehensive restrictions on the export of mercury and has domestic measures in place to ensure that imported mercury is managed in an environmentally sound manner. The Party is required to provide notification of such a decision to the Secretariat, including information describing its export restrictions and domestic regulatory measures and information on the quantities and countries of origin of mercury imported from non-Parties. This procedure was available until the conclusion of the second meeting of the Conference of the Parties. Parties that have notified the Secretariat in this context are Canada, Thailand and the United States of America.
