Q23 Part C. Comments regarding possible challenges in meeting the objectives of the Convention (Art. 21, para. 1)

The Government of Mongolia is required to overcome numerous challenges to meet the objectives of the Convention. Most of the objectives stipulated in the Convention could be achieved by amending the current laws, government resolutions, national programs, and ministerial orders. However, it should be noted that amending those legal instruments at the national level are time and resource consuming. An extensive financial resource, technical assistance, research, development, and monitoring are needed to overcome such challenges.

Extended support of financial, technical and capacity building for developing national action plans, guidelines, and regulations would bring significant value to the Government of Mongolia for meeting the objectives of the Convention.
